

Sinner's Hymn

(Henry Hipkens)

I am lost in night's cold darkness
With no light to shine for me
I am wondering through the forest
I am drifting out at sea
Silently I pray
There may be a way
I believe I will free myself someday

And I've been so wrong
So wrong will I ever be right
Know sweet Jesus there in the night
So long since I touched his face
So long since I've known his grace

I have strayed beyond the garden
I have lost the savior's sign
I have sinned and known the pleasure
But the pleasure not divine
Silently I pray
There may be a way
I believe I will free myself someday

And I've been so wrong
So wrong will I ever be right
Know sweet Jesus there in the night
So long since I touched his face
So long since I've known his grace

I believe I can free myself
I believe I will free myself
Someday
Someday I will free myself
I believe I will free myself
Oh some peaceful day
