

When I've Got The Moon

(Lisa Aschmann and Henry Hipkens - 1996)

When I've got the moon I ask for the stars
When I've got the stars I ask for the sun
And when I lay awake in the heat of the day
On the sunniest day in June
Ain't it funny how I gotta ask for the moon

When I've got a girl who's patient and kind
I wish she were daring perhaps less refined
Yet I know that she won't find a part she can sing
If forever I'm changing the tune
Ain't it funny how I gotta ask for the moon

The only thing that's certain
On which you can rely
Is give me what I ask for
And I won't be satisfied

When I've got the moon I ask for the stars
When I've got the stars I ask for the sun
And when I lay awake in the heat of the day
On the sunniest day in June
Ain't it funny how I gotta ask for the moon
